Who is Sarah Whiting

Sarah has a passion for bringing about purposeful change for all in the education system. She draws on her own experiences to bring play with purpose back into the classroom, supporting teachers to plan, provide and reflect on the learning that happens as a result. She weaves in her coaching and mentoring expertise to tweak the disposition of a teacher to include coaching through noticing and sense-making.

Throughout Sarah's career, she has been committed to enhancing personalised learning, learner agency and transitions to school. She takes her own in-school experiences, as a teacher and leader, alongside research to mentor educators in building their own understanding and capability for the improved outcomes for all learners.
