

Hawke's Bay Literacy Association Presents...

KATIE LUMSDEN

Supporting children with dyslexia

Katie will share specific ways that public libraries can help children with dyslexia and how their families can identify books worth trying so that they too can become a reader.

The introduction will be based on scientific research and personal insights. It will cover:

1. An introduction to dyslexia and how it impacts on books and reading.
2. How the layout of print in a book can facilitate reading and how to find these books in a library.
3. How e-books can be modified to support children with dyslexia to read more easily.

This is a hands on workshop for educators and school librarians.
