Still time to book places!

SHARED BOOK AND READING ALOUD WORKSHOP - JILL EGGLETON

'LITERACY LEARNING IS A MULTITUDE OF THREADS IN AN EVER- DEVELOPING TAPESTRY'

Jill Eggleton will present practical ideas for the easy implementation of two whole class literacy approaches - Shared Reading - (Shared Book and Poetry) and Reading Aloud. She will demonstrate how these approaches are an essential part of any literacy programme, regardless of age or stage as they provide some of the most important building blocks for becoming lifetime readers.

SHARED READING

Shared Reading will involve using musical, magical, rhythmical texts, both Shared Book and Poetry, to convey messages about the joy of reading. Jill will show how this simple and enjoyable approach will expose and saturate children in rich language structures and can help develop comprehension, extend vocabulary, create fluent readers, and assist in developing alphabetical code knowledge.

READING ALOUD

Reading Aloud will involve thinking about book selection and the importance of choosing books with the elements that make them suitable for this approach. Jill will discuss the role of the reader in demonstrating what a good reader does, the importance of engaging the listener, and the role the listener plays in the read-aloud.

These approaches correctly implemented, will help in developing imagination, creativity, and a love of language. They are the threads of gold that endure in the ever-developing tapestry of literacy learning. They matter. They are threads to hold onto come what may.
